Fiona Lobban is Professor of Clinical Psychology at Lancaster University. Her work aims to improve the evidence base for psychological interventions for people with severe and enduring mental health problems and their families, with a particular focus on developing easily accessible interventions to increase access to evidence based psychological care.

“Are our mental health services ready for digital?”

Dr. Fiona Lobban

Dr. Lobban’s presentation will draw on data from the IMPART study to highlight key factors impacting on delivery of an online toolkit to support relatives of people with psychosis or bipolar disorder in community mental health services. Discussion will focus on broader implications for implementation of digital health interventions across the NHS.
