A Research Associate position is available within the Department of Psychiatry, UBC, to work in an active research group which focuses on clinical research in depression and global mental health. The successful applicant will have appropriate skills and an extensive track record of research accomplishments in global mental health, especially in the area of depression care and mobile health.

Applicants must have an MD and/or PhD and at least 2 years postdoctoral training in a field relating to global mental health and/or depression research. The applicant should have a strong publication record and a proven track record of collaborative research.

Specific responsibilities will include: 1) Planning, designing and conducting independent, individual research projects in global mental health and depression research, focusing on the Asia-Pacific region, 2) establishing international collaborations with researchers, clinicians, and health policy-makers, 3) teaching and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students, interns, and research assistants, and 4) establishing new lines of research that build on and extend the goals of the sponsoring research group.

The anticipated start date is July 1, 2020. This is a twelve-month appointment subject to annual renewal. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

A letter of application, accompanied by a detailed curriculum vitae and names of three references, should be directed to:

Dr. Raymond W. Lam, MD,
Professor and BC Leadership Chair in Depression Research
Department of Psychiatry
University of British Columbia
2255 Wesbrook Mall
Vancouver, BC V6T 2A1

Closing date: April 30, 2020

Anticipated starting date of this position: July 1, 2020

The University of British Columbia (UBC) is a global centre for research and teaching. Surrounded by the beauty of the Canadian West, UBC embraces bold new ways of thinking that attract exceptional students and faculty. It is a place where innovative ideas are nurtured in a globally connected research community, providing unparalleled opportunities to learn, discover and contribute.

Faculty members, students, staff and alumni in the UBC Faculty of Medicine are actively engaged in innovative, leading edge research, education and community service on university and hospital campuses across the Province. Together we aim to create knowledge and advance learning that will make a vital contribution to the health of individuals and communities, locally, nationally, and internationally.

UBC hires on the basis of merit and is committed to employment equity. All qualified persons are encouraged to apply. UBC is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. However, Canadian and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

psychiatry.ubc.ca & med.ubc.ca